

HOLD FRIEND OF KIDNAPPED BOY'S SIRE FOR CRIME

Recent Manhattan Ranson "Snatch" Cleared
by Confession

New York, March 1.—(AP)—A friend of George Katz, Brooklyn racetrack bookmaker, who acted as intermediary in the ransoming of Katz's four-year-old son, Michael, was held by police today as one of two men who kidnaped the boy February 20.

Capt. Frank C. Bals said that Charles Mitchell, 31, the intermediary, and Sol Schwartz, 29, employed with him in the shipping department of a lithographing firm, had confessed the kidnapping.

Locked up for further questioning was Mrs. Nellie Resnick, 31, Schwartz's sister, in whose apartment authorities said the boy was held.

All three were booked at police headquarters—the men on kidnapping charges and the woman on a charge of withholding information about a kidnapping from police, which is a felony.

To Recoup Racing Bets

The two men, Capt. Bals said, told him they abducted Michael in an attempt to recoup $6,600 lost in racing bets placed in the last year with the father, George Katz.

The boy, seized a week ago Monday, was released within two hours after payment by the father of only $180 of a $7,000 ransom demand.

The kidnapping, Capt. Bals said, was executed in this way:

Schwartz grabbed the child from his negro maid after luring her from the home by a phone call. He took Michael to the home of his sister in Manhattan and asked her to care for the boy, telling her he was Mitchell's son.

Fictitious Stories

Meanwhile the father, advised in a ransom note to use Mitchell as an intermediary, paid him $180—all he said he could raise. Mitchell drove to Mrs. Resnick's home, picked up Michael and returned him to his parents.

Police described as fictitious the story Mitchell later told them that he had paid over the ransom money to two men in a darkened East Side tenement hallway and had found the boy a few minutes afterward in an adjoining doorway.

Suspicious of his role, police checked and found that neither Mitchell nor his friend, Schwartz, had been at work at the hour of the kidnapping. They explained they were attending the funeral of one of Schwartz's relatives.

Lieutenant Thomas M. Reilly arrested the two men after he said investigation disclosed the relative was not dead.

Dr. C. R. Brigham Laid to Rest in Polo Cemetery This Afternoon

(Telegraph Special Service)

Polo, March 1.—Funeral services were held at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon at the Methodist church here for Dr. C. R. Brigham, prominent physician who passed away suddenly Monday afternoon at the home of a local patient. Rev. Sidney Bloomquist conducted the rites and pallbearers were Henry Mades, Fred Stahler, Alec Temple, M. J. Naylor, Fred French and Jesse Ports. Burial was in Fairmount cemetery here.

Dr. Brigham was born at Springfield, Wis., January 6, 1873 and married Gertrude Barling of Waupaca, Wis., March 26, 1899. He was graduated from the Medical College of Physicians at Keokuk, Ia. in 1905 and moved to Brookville, Ill., where he started his profession.

In 1925 Dr. Brigham and his family moved to Polo. He served in the medical corps at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., during the World War and was captain of the Medical Reserve Corps at the time of his death. He was a member of the Patrick A. Fegan Post of the American Legion, the American Medical association, the Masonic lodge at Polo, the Freeport Consistory, and the M. W. A. lodge.

He is survived by his widow and three daughters, Hildred (Mrs. J. P. Conner), of Freeport, Verna (Mrs. Charles Wolf) of Polo and Miss Wilma, at home.

War Admiral Drawn From Widener Race

Miami, Fla., March 1.—(AP)—War Admiral today was officially declared out of the $50,000 added Widener Challenge cup race to be run at Hialeah park Saturday.

The five-year-old son of Man O' War, which contracted a fever and sore throat, was withdrawn following a conference between owner Samuel D. Riddle and trainer George Conway.

The trainer said it was felt that the Admiral "would not be up to his best form following his illness" although the horse was recovering.

News From Troubled Countries Briefly Told by AP

(By The Associated Press)
Britain boosted her army budget estimates to a new peacetime high today while the Spanish civil war remained in a stalemate which anxious Europe hoped was a prelude to permanent peace.

Prime Minister Chamberlain awaited the end of the Spanish war another step in European appeasement program after winning House of Commons approval, 344 to 137, last night for his recognition of the Spanish nationalist regime.

New army estimates for the 1939-40 fiscal year were $805,665,000 compared with $532,500,000 for that arm of Britain's defenses in the previous year. Defense cost estimates brought the British budget beyond $1,000,000,000 ($5,000,000,000) for the first time.

Spanish republican government, still clinging to one-fourth of Spain, met in secret session far to the north but no word was disclosed of any decision to cease or to continue resistance against the nationalists.

Generalissimo Franco held 500,000 troops in readiness for an offensive against republican territory if the Madrid regime holds out in spite of the fact that most of Europe considers Franco victorious and further republican resistance futile.

In Berlin, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering reiterated his confidence in Germany's air force, which he said was "the terror of our enemies and we are determined to keep it that way."

Warsaw police patrolled the streets to prevent any further demonstrations against Poland's powerful neighbor, Germany, after 5,000 students shouted for "a change in our foreign policy" last night.

The demonstration came during the visit of Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, and accompanied by reports that Poland had told Italy anew that she intended to remain neutral in troubled European affairs.

In Jerusalem, the Palestine Jewish assembly authorized its national council to call a general strike if necessary to demonstrate Jewish solidarity against a reported British plan to make the Holy Land an independent Arab state.

To Call Labor's Peace Parley in Less Than Week

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—Secretary Perkins said today she would call a meeting of the A. F. of L.-C. I. O. peace negotiating committee "in less than a week."

Miss Perkins said there still were some details of the conference to be arranged, and that she would discuss these with President Roosevelt on his return Saturday.

Upwards of 7,000,000 workers are involved in the dispute between the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The conferences, in response to a presidential request to close the breach between organized workers, will be the first between the two groups since October, 1937.

C. I. O. President John L. Lewis acted yesterday to make possible the renewed negotiations by appointing three C. I. O. negotiators to meet a similar committee named Saturday by A. F. of L. President William Green.

In a four-line letter to Roosevelt, Lewis accepted the President's invitation and picked himself and his two vice-presidents, Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray, as the C. I. O. negotiators.

Lewis made the letter public without intimating how he viewed the prospects of labor peace.

Many labor men and politicians expressed surprise that Lewis designated himself as a negotiator, but associates explained that he decided to participate actively because the A. F. of L. had charged him with wrecking the last peace conference from behind-the-scenes.

NO FIRST AID CLASS

The Red Cross first aid class conducted at the high school, will be omitted tonight, to enable the group to attend the basketball tournament. Sloppy Weather, Sickness Cause Record Light Vote at City Primary

The record light vote cast in Dixon in Tuesday's primary election is attributed, by officials, to sickness and sloppy weather. The total vote cast was 2,482 compared to 3,255 four years ago.

The fifth precinct was the first to complete its canvass of the results, but the number of ballots cast was very light. The second precinct at the city hall, one of the heaviest of the six, was the last to compile its record.

Of the nine candidates for commissioner, Walter E. Plock was eliminated in the primary, leaving the remaining eight for final election on April 18. All of the candidates have the privilege of

Parole Granted Crushed and Broken Former State Official

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—The United States board of parole said today William H. Malone, convicted on a charge of income tax law evasion, had been paroled, effective March 24.

Malone, former chairman of the Illinois State Tax Commission, was tried and convicted in federal court for the northern district of Illinois on an indictment charging income tax evasion.

A sentence of two years was imposed by Judge William H. Holly on May 27, 1938.

Malone reached parole eligibility on Jan. 26, 1939. He was heard by the board of parole at the United States hospital at Springfield, Mo., where he was sent following commitment to the United States penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa.

The parole board said, "The record reflects the applicant to be a man 61 years of age who stems from good parentage and who has lived the greater portion of his life in Park Ridge, Ill. He is a married man with a family and a banker and real estate dealer by profession."

To Enter Clinic

"Aside from the applicant's age and physical condition, it may be said he has held responsible positions in public life and that he has been an outstanding citizen in his home community and state."

"It is further shown that the applicant is crushed and broken mentally and physically, and that he expects to enter the Mayo Brothers' Clinic, Rochester, Minn., for specialized treatment upon release; that he is a cultured, refined and sensitive person, who in the judgment of the board, will not only make a favorable response to parole treatment, but one who will re-establish his status and character in society."

Malone began serving his sentence at Lewisburg May 27, 1938, and was transferred to the Springfield hospital July 9, 1938.

Amboy Woman is Among Lee County Pioneers

One of Lee county's oldest citizens is Mrs. Olive A. Evitts of Amboy who next September will be 95 years of age. Mrs. Evitts was born in Bradford township and makes her home with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Bates at Amboy. She is the grandmother of Chief Deputy Sheriff Leroy E. Bates of this city. Her husband, the late Charles A. Bates enlisted at Sublette and during the Civil War was a member of the Seventh Illinois cavalry. He was captured by the Confederate forces and confined to the Libby prison, where he contracted tuberculosis which later caused his death. After returning home, he and his wife migrated in a covered wagon to Colorado where he sought to regain his health, but passed away a few weeks after their arrival in the western state. Mrs. Evitts enjoys excellent health and visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bates in Dixon recently.

Mrs. Henry Stenger of Mendota is Dead

(Telegraph Special Service)

Mendota, March 1.—Mrs. Henry Stenger, 76, passed away at the Harris hospital here yesterday afternoon at 12:50 o'clock. She had been suffering with pneumonia for the past several days and previous to that she had been in poor health for some time.

Mrs. Stenger was Jane Cooper before her marriage in Nov. 1913 and a resident of Mendota all her life.

She is survived by her husband and a step-daughter, Mrs. Edna McDonald. Her immediate family preceded her in death a number of years ago. The remains will be at the Schwarz funeral home until the time of the services which will be held at the Holy Cross Catholic church tomorrow morning at 9:00 o'clock. Rev. Fr. Leo J. Wissing will be in charge.

Distribution of Weather Seemed All Wrong Today

Nature's distribution of the weather seemed all wrong to scattered portions of the nation today.

There was too much rain in the east and south and not enough in the far west. There was too much snow in parts of the middle west.

Freezing temperatures caused discomfort to a large section of the nation but in California warm weather was causing many fruit trees to bud prematurely.

Snow - plows bucked traffic-clogging drifts in Iowa. An 18-inch snowfall, one of the heaviest on record in that state, blocked some highways as effectively as steel bars. Plane service was disrupted and trains were far behind schedule.

Plows went into action in Minnesota and Wisconsin, where the snowfall ranged up to 20 inches. The storm area extended from the Texas Panhandle to Upper Michigan.

Valley farmers and stockmen in northern California worried over continued clear weather. They figured extensive irrigation would be necessary unless it rained.

In Georgia, Florida and Alabama three days of heavy rains caused rivers to flood unprotected farm lands. There was no immediate danger for river cities, however. Streams were rising in Pennsylvania after a 24-hour rainfall but no floods threatened.

A drizzling, chilling rain continued over most of New England. Fog covered portions of western Oregon and Pennsylvania, grounding planes in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

Networks Direct Attention to Vatican

New York, March 1(AP)—Starting today and continuing as long as the conclave of Cardinals is in session, American networks are to direct their attention to the Vatican and the election of a new pope.

The NBC chain has filed this schedule of preliminary broadcasts from the Vatican to be continued until the election: WEAF-NBC 8:05 a. m. (CST) daily except Sunday, when it will be 8 a. m.; WJZ-NBC 11 a. m. daily except Saturday when it will be at 10:15 a. m. and Sunday at 10:45 a. m.

WABC-CBS has listed a Vatican broadcast for 4:30 p. m. today but beyond that its schedule will depend on developments.

INDIANA COUPLE FOUND SLAIN IN HOME THIS MORN

Farm Hand, 30, Who Assaulted Daughter is Sought Today

BULLETIN
Indianapolis, March 1.—(AP)—Indiana State Police Captain Walter Eckart said Clifford Redmond, 30, farm hand, wanted for questioning in the double slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brand at Edinburg, had been captured "in or near" Ramsey, Ill.

Capt. Eckart said he had been informed of the capture by Sheriff C. F. Chesler of Fayette county, Illinois, who had been working on the case with Indiana state police.

Eckart said the sheriff told him in a telephone call, that Night Policeman Frank Finning had arrested Redmond and that he was driving the missing Brand Buick sedan.

Edinburg, Ind., March 1.—(AP)—A double slaying and an assault upon a 12-year-old girl were disclosed at dawn today in a rural home near here, and a two-state hunt was started for a 30-year-old farm hand.

Gloria Ann Brand identified the farm hand as her attacker and the slayer of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brand, state police said. Brand was 40, his wife 43.

As officers reconstructed the crime from Gloria's story and the blood-stained bedroom where the couple was found dead, the killer crept into the bedroom of the parents, shot them to death with a .22 calibre rifle, then beat their bodies with the weapon until it snapped in two. The broken stock was found in the room.

The man then stalked into an adjoining bedroom shared by Tommy 10, and Judith, 3, and criminally assaulted Gloria Ann. She told officers she recognized the man as a farm hand who had worked on the farm.

Illinois and Indiana state police searched for the man, believed to have fled in the Brands' missing automobile, a black 1935 Buick sedan.

Girl Sobbed Story

The sobbing hysterical girl, said she had lain terrified in bed with her brother and sister, until 6 a. m. before reporting the crime, which, she said, occurred shortly after midnight.

The Brand child was unable to answer many questions because of her hysterical condition. State police said an examination showed she had been criminally assaulted.

They said she told them she was sleeping with the other children in a room adjoining their parents' bedroom when she was awakened by a loud noise and then some scratching.

Suddenly, the officers said she told them, everything was quiet again and a man came into her room and grabbed her.

She ran at daylight to the home of a neighbor who called a Franklin physician, who in turn summoned authorities.

State police criminologists rushed here from Indianapolis to search for clues.

LEE COUNTY'S OLD AGE PENSIONS SET RECORD IN MONTH

The month of February set a new record for old age assistance claims in Lee county when the sum of $10,384 was paid to 613 clients, according to figures released today at the office of County Superintendent of Public Welfare Florence I. Sheppard at the court house. The average award per person was $17.

At the beginning of February there were 27 cases on file, from January, and six new applications were received for a total of 33. Three applications were granted, one was denied and at the end of the month 29 cases were pending investigation, 18 in the county and 11 at Springfield. There were 616 active cases continued from the month of January, with three new awards having been granted and one transfer received from another county, making a total of 620 cases for the month. Of this number, 611 received payment, four deaths were recorded, two were transferred out of the county, one was cancelled and two were suspended.

Unprecedented Broken Brake Part on Boston Trolley Causes Six Deaths

Boston, March 1.—(AP)—A broken brake part, which "never occurred before," was blamed today by Boston Elevated Company officials as the cause of the trolley smashup which killed six persons and injured nearly two score yesterday, in this city's worst street car accident since 1916.

Making its tenth trip of the day, the trolley car suddenly went out of control on an incline near the Dorchester section near the Franklin Park zoo, failed to negotiate a turn, hurtled across a broad intersection and careened into a tree.

Six persons standing in the vestibule of the car were killed instantly, four of them crushed beneath the car, one of them between the car and the tree.

Edward F. Hanley, 57, the operator, who has been in the company service 22 years, was released in $2,000 bail after being booked on a technical manslaughter charge.

Six separate investigations were under way today to determine if any other causes contributed to the crash, worst of its kind since 45 died on election night in 1916 when a street car plunged through an open drawbridge.

Mystery Radio Station Stirs Mexican State

Mexico City, March 1.—(AP)—The Mexican press today linked the hunt for a mysterious, unlicensed radio transmitter to an investigation of so-called German espionage in which newspapers said the brother-in-law of the police chief of Berlin was detained.

Among eight persons taken into custody was a man identified in the press as Baron Hans Heinrich von Helleufer, related by marriage to Count Wolf Heinrich von Helldorf, Berlin police head.

The German legation announced it had intervened through the Mexican foreign relations office to obtain a stay in deportation proceedings against Baron von Helleufer. He came here in 1931 as a refugee from pre-Nazi Germany and remained as the representative of several German firms.

Informed sources said those detained with the baron were "mostly Germans." Their detention followed disclosure that an unregistered short-wave radio transmitter was operating in a Mexico City suburb.

At the same time it became known that Pablo Garbinsky, advertising manager of a Jewish weekly newspaper here, had been taken to Vera Cruz for deportation, charged with falsifying birth records for various persons admitted to Mexico, presumably Jews.

Whether there was any connection between his arrest and the detention of the others was not disclosed.

Minnesota Fugitive Caught in Ogle Co.

(Telegraph Special Service)

Oregon, March 1.—August Rohr, 49, who has been working on the Earl Cleveland farm one-half mile south of Rochelle since last May under the name of Gus Nagel, was arrested at the farm this morning by Sheriff James White and Special Deputy Henry Ulfferts of Oregon and Chief of Police Joe Jacobson and Officer Ralph Carr of Rochelle, and is now lodged in the Ogle county jail, awaiting the arrival of officers from St. James, Minn., where he is alleged to have broken jail last April 19. Rohr is said to have escaped from prison in the Minnesota city shortly after beginning a seven year sentence for forgery.

Auto Thief Gets Fast Work in DeKalb County

Sycamore, Ill., March 1.—(AP)—Charles Jones, 23, of Ventura, Calif., also known as Wayne Kelly, was sentenced to one to 20 years in the Joliet penitentiary today after pleading guilty to larceny of an automobile. Circuit Judge William Fulton imposed sentence.

Jones, arrested Sunday five minutes after he had stolen a DeKalb resident's automobile, was indicted Monday. Police said he told them he had stolen an automobile in Peoria Saturday and abandoned it a few minutes before taking the DeKalb car.

$499,857,936 AP-PROPRIATION TO WAR DEPARTMENT

House Committee Urges Passage of Record Peace Time Bill

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—The House appropriations committee approved today a $499,857,936 appropriation for the war department. It included the first funds to carry out President Roosevelt's proposed $300,000,000 expansion of the army air corps.

Purchase of 784 additional planes would be made possible by the measure, the total of which was $39,656,682 greater than the sum provided to operate the department for the current fiscal year.

Most of the new planes would be combat types. The department said it intended to use the funds to acquire 400 single-engine pursuit ships, 248 attack bombers—a new type for the army; 13 four-engine bombers, 13 interceptors, 55 primary training planes, 14 photographic planes, 19 basic training ships for the national guard and 22 basic combat types for the organized reserves.

The bill carried a total of $94,373,281 for the Air Corps, including $30,494,012 of the $50,000,000 which Roosevelt asked be made available immediately from the $300,000,000 emergency program for the Air Corps to take up the lag in aircraft production due to idle plants. The committee recommended that the department be authorized to let contracts for the balance of three $50,000,000.

Along with the appropriation bill, the committee made public detailed information about present armaments.

House committee hearings on the bill contained this testimony:

CHICAGO'S POLL SET RECORD FOR PRIMARY TESTS

Mayor Kelly and Dwight H. Green Winners in Mayoral Contests

Chicago, March 1.—(AP)—Mayor Edward J. Kelly, backed by a powerful, smooth-working Democratic organization, polled the largest primary election vote in Chicago's history to win re-nomination yesterday.

The 62-year-old Democratic leader easily met the challenge of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney, who entered the mayoral primary with a reputation as a tremendous vote-puller.

Kelly not only received a majority of nearly 300,000 over Courtney but also rolled up more than 50 per cent of all votes cast in both the Republican and Democratic primaries.

His opponent in the April 4 election will be Dwight H. Green, former U. S. district attorney who gained wide notice as the prosecutor of Al Capone and other gangsters.

Green captured the Republican nomination by defeating William Hale "Big Bill" Thompson, a veteran of Chicago politics who was thrice mayor. Green's victory margin was better than three to one.

First Bid for Office

The Republican nominee, backed by the regular party organization, is making his first bid for elective office. Twenty years the mayor's junior, Green promised a vigorous campaign to "smash the Kelly-Nash machine."

P. A. Nash is Democratic national committeeman. The unofficial count from all but 16 of the 3,648 precincts was: Kelly, 607,180 and Courtney, 319,169, with two minor candidates polling less than 5,000. Reports from all except 13 precincts gave Green 211,965 and Thompson 62,352.

All primary records were shattered by the outpouring of approximately 1,200,000 voters. The Democratic total of more than 900,000 surpassed previous primary marks and compared with approximately 1,200,000 voters. The publican candidates. Compared with the 1938 primary the Democrats gained 25,000 votes and the Republicans 81,000.

Republicans Satisfied

The first major test of political trends this year found Chicago Republican leaders satisfied. They pointed out that the late A. J. Cermak polled approximately Green's total and then defeated Thompson in the election of 1931.

Edward H. Moore, Republican county chairman, said it was "a wonderful day for Republicans" on the basis of gains over the 1938 primary. G. O. P. chieftains said defeat of the Kelly-Nash organization in April would greatly enhance the party's prospects for a state-wide victory in 1940.

Prosecutor Courtney wired congratulations to Mayor Kelly less than two hours after the polls closed.

"Your administration has been approved by the voters," his message said.

Thompson, too, saw early returns predict his defeat and commented:

"The Republicans have spoken. Let their will be done."

Asks Courtney's Support

Green immediately invited Courtney's support in the April election. The latter, like Green, conducted a campaign against the "Kelly-Nash machine," asserting the city administration had allowed syndicate gambling to flourish and had hiked the tax rate to a new high.

Kelly ignored his Democratic opponent and confined his stump speeches to a recital of his six-year record. Commenting on his victory he said "the people showed again that they know how to meet their civic problems through use of the ballot."

His young Republican opponent declared "the real fight has just begun. It is a fight to the end between the ruthless monopolistic Democratic machine and the people."

First Named by Council

Mayor Kelly was selected chief executive by the city council in 1933 after Mayor Cermak was wounded fatally when an assassin fired at President Roosevelt at Miami the previous year. He was elected to the office two years later.

Thompson's defeat marked his second unsuccessful attempt to re-establish his political fortunes since he left the mayor's chair in 1931. The colorful politician ran a poor third as a candidate for governor in 1936 on the Union Progressive party ticket.

Green, a native of Ligonier, Ind., starred at football at Wash College and later attended Leland Stanford University and the University of Chicago. He served in the air corps during the World War.

Political observers believed the tenor of Courtney's congratulatory message to Mayor Kelly indicated the probability that the mayor would have the Democrats' united support in April.

SELF-DISCIPLINE

Be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus . . . Thou therefore endure hardship, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.

A modern saint has said that the real Christian temper is the power of being outwardly genial but inwardly austere. That is a memorable way of saying that the Christian is generous with others but very strict with himself. And when St. Paul urges us to "endure hardship" he bids us to be inwardly austere. As a master of the devotional life he knew that we could make no advance without self-discipline.

Just as discipline in the army means keeping fit for service and dependable in action, so self-discipline means keeping ourselves always ready and always reliable. It is a combination of preparedness and persistence, and both are needed for a fruitful Lent.

As in the army, discipline is never for its own sake but always for the sake of victory, so it is in our own lives. To live by rule, to keep ourselves steady when we are working against the grain, would be a weary business if it were a mere "stunt."

What brings joy into the disciplined life is the thought of Him whom we serve. We cannot let His plans for us be defeated by being easy with ourselves.

Chicago Nurse to Become Bride of T. Francis Loan

Miss Jeanette Allen, daughter of the Frank Allens of Byron, has chosen Easter Monday, April 10, as the date for her wedding to T. Francis Loan, son of James Loan of Oregon. The couple will pledge their marriage vows at St. Mary's Catholic church in Byron.

Miss Allen, a graduate of Byron high school and of the St. Anthony hospital school of nursing in Rockford, is employed on the nursing staff of Cook County hospital in Chicago. Her fiancé, a graduate of Oregon high school, is employed as a postal clerk at the Oregon post office.

RUTH WRIGHT IS DRUM MAJORETTE

According to word received by Nelson friends of the Kenneth H. Wright family, formerly of Nelson, Ruth Wright has been chosen one of the four drum majorettes at Proviso high school in Maywood. Her brother, Kenneth Jr., is an honor student at Proviso.

On Sunday, the majorettes made their first public appearance at a concert in the school auditorium.

Mr. Wright is with the Galena division of the train dispatcher's office in Chicago.

Guest Speaker to Address D. A. R.

"Our National Parks," a subject which is certain to interest every member of Dixon Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be discussed by Mrs. John Squires of Mt. Carroll, Ill., at Saturday's meeting of the chapter. Mrs. Ira Lanphier, Mrs. G. W. Lindquist, and Mrs. A. H. Lancaster will entertain at 2:30 o'clock at Mrs. Lanphier's home.

FAREWELL COURTESY
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buzzard, who are moving to Dixon, were surprised by nearly 50 neighbors and friends Monday evening at their country home east of the city. The couple will operate a filling station north of the city on Route 26.

An evening of cards, Chinese checkers, and visiting was followed by a scramble lunch. A chair was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Buzzard by their unexpected guests.

TOWN HALL PARTY
The Misses Elinor Thompson and Jean Hennicks entertained with dancing Friday evening at the Nelson Town Hall. Lunch was served by Mrs. Walter Thompson. Among those attending were Maggie Wilson, June Stafford, Ruth Moore, R. Price, Benola Stanley, John Joe Thomas, Dale Moore, Don Anning, Charles Hanson, Jr., Leroy Dumphy, Billy Hollingsworth, Junior Raffenberg and Kenneth Fitzgerald.

Old South Still Lives

Lovely ladies in hoop skirts, descendants of original home owners, will greet you at the threshold and make you welcome when the Pilgrimage Garden club of Natchez, Miss., entertains at its Eighth Annual Pilgrimage to Original Pilgrimage Houses, March 4-19. Since 1932, the Pilgrimage has opened to the visiting public doors of old world mansions built and furnished with priceless pieces by southern aristocracy when the south was young, cotton was king, and fabulous fortunes were made, homes that reflect the heroes of their day, soldier, statesmen and gentlemen and their ladies.

Campbell Sisters, Gwen and Maxine, To Be Among Brides of Early March

Plans for two early March weddings have made the household of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Campbell of 119 East Bradshaw, a busy one the past few weeks. At 8 o'clock this evening Miss Gwen Campbell, eldest of the Campbells' three daughters, will become the bride of Gerald W. Weaver, only son of the William Weavers of Polo, and on March 8, a week from today, Gwen's youngest sister, Maxine, will become Mrs. James Hey.

Both Gwen and Maxine have planned simple home weddings. The Rev. Howard P. Buxton, pastor of the Dixon Methodist Episcopal church, will perform the double wedding ceremony in which Gwen will give her hand in marriage to Mr. Weaver.

Bouquets of spring flowers, jonquils, tulips, Japanese iris and freesia will decorate the rooms for tonight's wedding, to be witnessed only by members of the immediate families. Miss Elizabeth Ford will be at the piano for the nuptial prelude, playing "O Promise Me" and "I Love You Truly."

Miss Joyce Campbell will be out from Chicago to attend her sister as maid of honor. The bride's father will serve as best man.

The bride will be wearing a corsage of Talisman roses and valley lilies with her simple wedding frock of dark blue crepe. Her "something old" is a pearl brooch in a lover's knot setting, which has been in the bride's family for many years.

An informal reception will follow the ceremony. An all-white cake will be served with the lunch.

Miss Campbell was graduated from Dixon high school with the class of 1933, and later from the Rockford School of Beauty Culture. For the past four and a half years, she has been employed at Elizabeth's Beauty shop.

Mr. Weaver, a graduate of the Polo Community high school in 1930, is employed at Beier's bakery.

The couple have taken an apartment at 115 Everett street. On Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Plozman entertained at dinner in compliment to the brides-to-be and their fiancés.

NACHUSA UNIT
Members of Nachusa Farm Bureau unit will meet Friday evening at the William Meyer home for a scramble lunch and program.

Mrs. Frazer and Mrs. Lynch Give Bridge-Luncheon

Golden jonquils appointed a gay luncheon table at a local tea room yesterday, at which Mrs. B. J. Frazer and Mrs. F. W. Lynch were joint hostesses. After the luncheon, the 16 guests were invited to the Lynch apartment, 419 West Third street, to make up tables for contract.

Miss Lolita Quick and Mrs. D. C. Bryant won the favors at the bridge tables.

CATHOLIC WOMEN PLAN DINNER AND DANCE FOR MARCH

Announcement was made of two benefit affairs of mid-March at last evening's meeting of St. Patrick's Catholic Women's club in St. Mary's hall. A public dinner on Thursday evening, March 16, is to be followed the next night by a St. Patrick's dance.

The Revs. Father T. L. Walsh and James J. Burke entertained last evening with a motion picture, "Robinson Crusoe." Guest prizes were awarded to Mrs. Laurence Dailey and William Blum.

Refreshments were served to nearly 50 members by fourth grade room mothers, working under the supervision of Mrs. Joseph Mahan.

TO NEW ORLEANS

Roy O. West of Chicago expects to be heading southward Friday for a winter vacation in New Orleans. Mrs. LeGrand Cannon of 122 East Third street is his daughter.

LEAVE FOR SOUTH

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Fluhr of 323 East Boyd street are vacationing in the South. They are including Hot Springs, New Orleans and Florida on their itinerary.

IN-COLLEGE PLAY

Georgia Peterman of Franklin Grove, a sophomore at Eureka college, will portray one of the leading roles in the all-college Shakespearean comedy, "Much Ado About Nothing," to be presented in the Eureka high school building at 8:15 o'clock Friday evening. Georgia, who is a daughter of Mrs. Ada Peterman of Franklin Grove, was active in dramatics while attending Franklin Grove high school.

Small Chests Handy

Few apartments and small dwellings have quite enough drawer or storage space. Unpainted wooden chests are very inexpensive, fun to paint or stain yourself, and come in such a wide variety of widths and heights that several can be tucked here and there without taking up noticeable room. A chest in a hall will hold overshoes, rubbers and extra scarves. One or two in the living room can be used as end tables and will hold all sorts of odds and ends such as playing cards, score pads, extra ash trays, and in the children's room provide ample space for small toys and games. And, of course, in bathroom and kitchen for extra linen.

Immaculate Gloves

Washable leather gloves need not be difficult to keep immaculate. Wash them on your hands in mild, tepid soapsuds. Rinse well in clear water of the same temperature, blot between absorbent towels, blow into each glove until every finger is separate and puffed out, and dry on gloves form or towel rack. Take them down occasionally as they dry and work the leather between your hands gently to keep it soft and pliable.

New Handbags

Distinctive spring handbags show a similarity of treatment in pouch and frame — smoking, shirring and pleating in the pouches handsomely duplicate the carving on the frame. Generous pouches of softest doekin, beautifully detailed, dyed in the season's high colors, topped with frames of carved plastic in harmonizing jewel-tones are an excellent choice to wear with rather dressy afternoon ensembles.

Wasp Waists are In

Wasp waists are in again—despite the scoffers. Hips are also to be cultivated, if you want to wear some of the new styles convincingly. Rounded hips, in fact, are fast showing promise of becoming one of the canons of 1939 beauty, rather than the defect women have striven so hard to eliminate these past years.

DOROTHY CHAPTER

Dorothy chapter, No. 371, O. E. S., will meet in Brinton Memorial Masonic temple at 8 o'clock Friday evening.

Perfect for Traveling

Perfect for traveling (plaids don't show spots!) and ideal for country or suburbs, this smart little suit in brown and chartreuse plaid wool has a full skirt and a short, fitted jacket. The blouse is in string colored jersey.

BRIDGE CLUB

Members of the South Side bridge club were invited to Mrs. Robert Sterling's home for luncheon and contract on Monday.

NORTH SIDE CLUB

Mrs. John Davies entertained at dinner last evening for members of the North Side bridge club.

PERSONALS

Leon M. Adams and Robert Morridge of Amboy were Dixon visitors Tuesday afternoon.

Richard Koehn of Rockford was a Dixon visitor today.

Superintendent of Schools A. H. Lancaster is in Cleveland, Ohio this week, attending a meeting of the National Education Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Pitzer moved today from rural route 3, Dixon, to rural route 3, Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Campbell returned yesterday from Elgin, where their daughter, Mrs. Raymond Long, is recovering from a major operation. Mrs. Long was dismissed from the Sherman hospital on Sunday.

Charles Clinker, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Clinker of 415 Second avenue, who submitted to an emergency appendectomy Friday evening at Katherine Shaw Betha hospital, is recovering satisfactorily.

Peanut Butter Cookies

Use 1 cup of fat, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup peanut butter, 2 eggs, 2½ cups flour, ½ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon vanilla.

Cream the fat and sugar, then add peanut butter and mix well. Add beaten eggs, and then dry ingredients sifted together and vanilla. Mix well and shape into balls. Place about 2 inches apart on pan. Press both ways with a fork to flatten and mark each ball. Bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, for about 12 to 15 minutes. (Submitted by Miss Marian Symphon, Lee County Home Bureau Adviser.)

One in every 12 persons in England holds a license to drive an automobile.

STEP IN FOREIGN POLICY

There will be no naval air base on the island of Guam.
This decision was made by a Congress which has been mystified by the President's secret foreign policy.

Guam lies about 6,000 miles west of California. It is in the midst of islands mandated to Japan after the World war, and subject to fortification by the Japs if they have not already established such protection.

At first, when the subject of establishing a naval air base at Guam was broached there were reports that such a defense was desired by the United States navy. Therefore we favored the air base, on the ground that the navy knows its business. We still are in favor of establishing a naval air base at Guam if the navy high command so desires.

But it appears that the President, Secretary Ickes and Senator Key Pittman have been talking too much. They have cocked their eyes at the dictators and screamed for defenses at home, knowing that the dictators couldn't land a man on United States soil even if they dared turn their backs on Russia, England and France for a military campaign against this hemisphere.

This action of the Senate marks a turn in United States foreign policy. It has not been dictated by the President, nor by Secretary Ickes nor Mr. Pittman. The House and Senate have taken a hand, and to our notion it is a step toward world peace.

It is an indication that the Congress has no desire to co-operate in the President's mysterious foreign policy, which includes making war planes available to France even before they are available to the United States forces.

It is a formal notification to Britain and France of a fact which they do not always recognize, namely that if the President of the United States aims to commit American boys and American money to make the world safe for such democracy as is represented by the foreign debt dodgers, the American Congress has the final say-so; and it has said "NO!"

However, if our Japanese friends feel we are afraid to fortify Guam, let them keep that jubilation under their hats.
One peep of boasting by these Oriental junkers and we will,
likely as not, fortify everything in sight.

The step toward American isolation should not gratify Hitler and Mussolini. Nobody over here aims to help them.
We merely are reasserting our aloofness from Europe's squabbles.

These quarrels have been going on more than 2,000 years. An issue will be raised and settled in this generation, and it will arise for resettlement in the next until people learn to give as well as take. There is no imperative reason for this immediate generation of Americans to interfere.

ASYLUM FOR REFUGEES

Humanitarian considerations have prompted some demand for revision of immigration laws so as to permit refugees from Germany and Austria to enter the United States
as candidates for citizenship.

It is a touchy question upon which legislators would hesitate long before voting either way. Theoretically we ought to open the doors of this land of milk and honey for oppressed peoples. Actually the land of milk and honey has 10 to 12 million of its own citizens living on charity, and hundreds of thousands eating away their resources. We have the CCC established to provide occupation for youths who never have had a real job. Every community has its quota of men past 40 who, if conditions continue as at present, never will have another real job.

To support these people and maintain its own government, the New Deal is spending far more than its revenue.

We do not lack sympathy for Europe's persecuted minorities. Only half of them are said to be Jews, so the Semitic issue applies only half-way, even with those who recognize the issue at all.

The fact is that the United States has no new land.
Traditionally, oppressed peoples have had some place to go when arriving here. Conditions have changed.

On the other hand England and France have new lands.
They have rich colonies with invaluable resources. They have whole areas which they might abandon to refugees.
True, such procedure would mean a change in the manner of living of these persons, but the original refugees who settled in this country changed their manner of living.

Or South America might welcome them. The state of Brazil has vast regions never explored. That country could support 600 millions of refugees with ease.

CHANGE THE SCENERY

Maybe it's just the absence of Mr. Roosevelt.
But only a few days ago it appeared that the United States was going to have to buckle on its sword again and make the world safe for democracy. With rejection of the Guam appropriation and an intense uproar in Congress
over secret diplomacy, the President took a vacation.

And now the stage setting is different. Forgotten, apparently, is the black threat to democracy, and in its place is the need for confidence and co-operation.

We read that several conservative Democrats have conferred with a view to repealing some of the Roosevelt errors.
Their attitude seems to be that since confidence and co-operation are asked, something ought to be done to earn them.
It may be only a flash in the pan, a slight step toward restoration of sane government that will fizzle out when
Mr. Roosevelt comes back from his trip.

NEW CRISIS APPROACHES

A new crisis is brewing in Europe.
It is being cooked up by the Italians this time, aided morally by the Germans.

The issue is this: Are Britain and Germany going to keep their promises made to Italy at the London conference, where Italy was persuaded to join the allies against Germany in the World war? They violated those promises, and instead of giving Italy colonies, they kept them for themselves as "mandates."

Another issue is this: Are France and Britain going to restore the colonies taken from Germany after the World war? Germany says she means to have them.

The British take the position that these colonies are worthless. If they are worthless, as the British say, then they are hardly worth a crisis, much less a war. Certainly they are not of sufficient importance to involve the United States.

THE CHARACTERS

Peter Mallone: Adventurous journalist.
Petronella: His sister.
James: Petrel's fiancé.

Yesterday: Worried about Peter and Tony in Madrid, Petrel comes up to London for more news. She meets Clare Horton, again.

Chapter 37 DECISION

"Tell me more about it. I can't promise. There are reasons—I don't think I can go. But I might,"
Petrel stammered.
Clare put out a hand and touched hers. "My dear child, I'd quite forgotten. Of course, you have reasons. I saw the announcement in the Times. I should have congratulated you. No one could expect a fiancé to let you go to Spain!"

"That is just over," Petronella
told her. "That isn't the reason."
Instead of questioning her, Clare explained.

"I want to make a camp somewhere in the mountains near Madrid. Soon, the city is going to fall to Franco," Clare assured her with conviction. "We shall keep the children safe while the air raids finish their job, then return them to their homes, when Madrid has been liberated."

Petronella's expression was agonized, as she met Clare's eyes.
"There's nothing I'd rather do.
It would be fine, to try to save something from the awful wreckage and pain men inflict on themselves, and their children. I've seen so much suffering. I've seen children as you've seen them, pale,
starving, and babies, with eyelids
as heavy as crocus. But if only you'd ask me to go somewhere else. Not to Madrid."

Quite bluntly, Clare suddenly
asked her question.
"Why?" She leaned towards her.
"I've known since I first met you that we ought to be talking about you," she stated quietly. "If it possibly help? Of course, if it can't shut me up. I'm so used to organizing people," she smiled.
"I wish you could organize
me. You—you remember Tony Lance?" Petronella asked. Clare
did not pretend denseness.

"So he is the trouble?" For a moment, Petronella was silent, while Clare waited. Then, as though she were ten years younger,
she blurted out the truth.
"I've loved him for years, years. I know he's no good to me, but I'm a fool, and can't help it."

One of Clare's eyebrows lifted slightly. "So you're the girl he met in Rangoon? I wondered, when he told me."

"He put me second, then, to his work. He just went off without a word."
"Yes, he told me something of the sort."
"It has been the same ever since. Whenever we've met, he has acknowledged it, and thought it unimportant. He knew I'd wait, because I could help him. But he wouldn't admit he was glad of it, till we met last year in Cairo. He hadn't seen me for a long time. I'd changed a great deal. It suddenly struck him that after all, my life with Peter had turned me into a possible wife for him. So, at last when it really suited him, he admitted that he loved me. But then he told me—"

"Yes, tell me what happened in Cairo?"
Petronella's low, urgent, unhappy voice described the few days of happiness, and the way they had ended. Her eyes met Clare's.
"You see? Life with Tony would be like that—danger, trouble, horror. If I'd married him, I'd be in Madrid, now."

Clare Horton sat back. Her lips smiling, her eyes soft. She shook her head gently at Petronella.
"Then that is where you ought to be, my dear. You love him. You can't make your own terms with love."

"But he doesn't love me enough.
He can't! He let me go!"
Clare stirred her tea. "When I met him in China, and he told me about you, he explained why he'd left you. He was afraid your nerve might go. Well, he was right! It did! He said you were the wrong type to stand suspense and the sight of suffering."

Petronella gulped, but sat listening to this gentle reproof.
"Perhaps it was because your life with your brother never seemed permanent or compulsory,
that you stood it so long. But when you came to face marrying, and going on—"

"Turn In Half"

"You're right," Petrel interrupted her. "I did feel like that.
Tony seemed suddenly a stranger,
and not worth it. I longed for him to promise me security, and he didn't. It was only when I'd

Brain Twizzlers

"I DON'T LIKE TH' IDEA AN' I DON'T LIKE ASPARAGUS."

It seems almost preposterous to think that a man could think up
a way to make new asparagus out of old asparagus stems, yet that's just what happened. It occurred to a very clever man who had an inventive mind that there was a sad waste in the asparagus stems which almost no one eats because they get too tough when you eat down that far. This man found that out of every half dozen chewed off stems he could make one nice, new piece of asparagus.
He took the idea to a produce manufacturer and presented an experiment to prove his point. He had thirty-six asparagus stems with which to experiment. How many new pieces could be have made?

had time to calm down, away from him, that I knew I still loved him. But what would have been the use of it? He doesn't love me enough to give up anything for me! I should have been miserable."

Clare bit her scone, unimpressed. "Well, it is perfectly obvious that you're torn in half, trying to stay away from him."

"Then—would you go? My fiancé fell in love with another girl. You'd tell him that, that I had to let him
free?" Petronella challenged.
"Certainly. That was also Tony's fault."

"You'd just go back and surrender on his terms?"

Clare smiled. "No, but I should go back. The terms won't arrange themselves so badly, if he loves you."

Petronella was thinking. At last she said, "Do you know, you're right! If the news comes that they're alive, I'll go."

"I'm glad. Go and telephone again."

Petronella did not think there could be any news yet, but there was a chance. She kept telling herself, as she dialed the News office number, and waited, that she was mad to feel this inner elation, and excitement. But the moment
she heard the voice of her friend
on the switchboard answering her,
she knew it was justified.

"Is that Miss Mallone? Oh, we've been waiting to get you. I'll put you straight through to Mr.
Rowden."

"Petrel?" cried Martin Rowden heartily. "We've just heard! Those fellows weren't even English. Peter and Tony Lance haven't left Madrid. They're only just heard the rumor themselves. But they're finding it harder, and harder, to get a line."

Petrel's answer was a whimper
of delight.
"Oh, Martin—I'm so happy!"

"Steady! I know how you feel."
"Martin—I'll be ringing you again later," she half sobbed. "To tell you some news. I—I'm going to Spain myself. I shall want your help."

Her feet did not notice the station until she reached Clare again.
She shouted, "They're all right!"
from the door.

"I felt they must be!"
Petronella repeated what Martin Rowden had told her. Her eyes were shining. I'm still going! You helped tremendously," she told her. "If I hadn't met you, I might be feeling shaken and angry after that scare. Now, well, I'm just thankful God I met you, Clare.
Whatever happened, I feel at one again, alive again. You see, Tony and Peter, they matter. They're my life. When I'm away from them, I'm dead. How does one get to Madrid?"

"By ship to Valencia, I think."
They decided that she should leave as soon as possible. Martin Rowden would write Peter to meet her.
Clare had become exceedingly practical, now that it was settled.
She was determined Petrel should achieve something for other people, even if she did not manage it for herself.

"Public sympathy is one difficulty here. You see, we can't combine children of both government and insurgent parents in the scheme. But I shall get to work as soon as I hear from you, and join you out there as soon as I can, to complete arrangements."

"I'm glad I failed."

James sat opposite Petronella at lunch. It was Monday. Her hair had been newly washed, and looked soft round her face. She was pale, shining eyed, and sitting nervously upright. The orchestra was playing a romantic selection from Lohar, and there was a pleasant roar from the sizzling grill, and the flowers between them on the table.

Her passport lay on the white cloth. She had shown him her special visa. He had heard her intention. It was incredible, thought James. She was leaving this, for Spain. She was going back to those two, and had promised to undertake Clare Horton's resposibilities as an excuse for going.
James was horribly afraid for her life.

Because of the degree of love he must always feel, and the mixture of admiration and pity for her, he would apply the greatest pressure
he could to stop her going. For he doubted that she thought it her duty, in a generous cause. She had not stressed that reason. No, she needed saving from herself, from her infatuation for Lance. And from her love for Peter.

She certainly did not know, yet, about himself and Tamara. If he could prevent her committing this final folly, she need never know.
He had told Tamara that, sternly.
He was preparing to give up their new, quaking love for his former loyalty. She valued her engagement as a safe background, even if she did not love him passionately. They would be happy.
He would probably be safer with her, than with Tamara.

"It's a crazy idea. You can't do any real good."

"The work is largely common sense."

"But, Petrel, can't you see it isn't your job? You're engaged to be my wife. To live in England."

"There's no longer any question of marrying me another," she smiled at his blustering.

"But we settled all that. I know you still love Tony, and always will; to a certain degree, in spite

In New York

New York, March 1.—Anonymity is the lot of most press agents, but more flamboyant legend surrounds Richard Maney
than most of his clients.

Of all the Broadway Boswells,
he is the most literate and colorful. Prankish in his prose, he is a walking thesaurus of metaphor and hyperbole.

Ben Hecht dubbed him the
"Francis Villon and the Three-sheets." In turn, Maney dubbed Hecht the "Nyack Necromancer."
The score is even.

Of ballyhooists, Maney is the least awe'd by his employers. He,
it was, who, described Billy Rose variously as The Mighty Midget,
the Mad Mahout and the Bantam Barnum and who once summed up the end of a Moscovite cycle of plays for his boss, Jed Harris, by announcing, "At last, Jed has combed the Cossacks out of his curis."

His conversation often is as bizarre as his written spiels. At the Artists and Writers Club, where he holds forth with a newspaper
crowd, he is given to harangues.

A devout Irishman, he is a bitter Anglophobe and fanatical Francophile. And he is not one to mince any four letter words while he is laying out the British and expounding the virtues of the French. He also regards himself an authority on France's military past.

The Match Game, which was invented in the back room of the Artists and Writers Club a long time ago, is his most strenuous form of exercise, by the way, involving as it does the lifting of three ordinary matches from the table. At this game, he is nearly invincible, as I can certify at first hand.

Dixon Evening Telegraph's
Washington Correspondent

Washington, Mar. 1.—Not that it will make the paying of your current income taxes any pleas-anter—but this year if you have a row with Uncle Sam about the sum he is going to collect from you, it will be easier, simpler and less expensive to get the thing settled.

Ordinarily, most income tax disputes are settled by the Technical Staff of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Formerly centralized in Washington, this outfit now is being scattered all over the country. By May 1 the work of setting up 10 regional divisions will be completed, and the 600 technical advisers on the staff will be out where the taxpayers can get at them without taking a long trip to Washington.

Income tax returns are already starting to come in, but for the present they are simply being divided into two piles—returns on incomes under $5000, and returns
on incomes over that amount.
When the March 15 deadline arrives, Internal Revenue Bureau deputies will begin checking the

of the rotten way he's consistently treated you. There isn't any need to throw our solid, reliable understanding over because of him."

Wasn't he going to say anything about Tamara? Didn't he want to be free? Why did he keep giving her these chances? James looked away. She understood. No wonder she had very nearly succeeded in loving him!

"If I could have forgotten Tony,
I would have done," she said, her voice gentle with gratitude. "But I'm glad I failed, James. We might have been happy together if I'd never met Tony. I might still have made you happy if Tamara hadn't slipped into my place. Thank you for pretending so hard, to try to stop me."

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

A fascinating pastime with Albert Edward Wiggam, S. Sc., Author of
"THE MARKS OF A CLEAR MIND."

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new "idea." (Bagehot). We hope this column brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. It has been found by the personality research now being conducted by over 100 psychologists that children have finer personalities who are not allowed to lean on their parents or depend on them for their decisions, and who are taught self-reliance and to think and act for themselves under tolerant and wise parental guidance—not punishment or severe discipline. They are more attractive to others and exert more influence as leaders than those whose parents decided everything for them.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Certainly, because as I have shown in Cosmopolitan from the five year research on marriage by Prof. Lewis M. Terman of Stanford, about 85 per cent of more than 1,000 marriages studied rated their marriages "above average" in happiness and a large percentage rated themselves as "extraordinarily happy." This,
of course, did not include those who had ended their marriages by di-voice, but it shows that most people who stay married are happy.

Several other researches have reached the same conclusion.
Marriage is still a grand and successful institution.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. Nearly everybody does. As Dr.
Karl Menninger points out in a new book, the man or woman who drinks to excess is a "chronic suicide." He knows he is slowly committing suicide and either consciously or unconsciously wishes to do so. Also the neurotic who ded-velops all sorts of imaginary diseases—as well as the pedestrian who takes extra risks have this same suicidal obsession. Besides these, according to the Doctor,
those who overeat, lose sleep unnecessarily, develop useless worries and hates of other people are really destroying themselves and most of them, he thinks, have an unconscious wish to do so.

staff comes in. For in most cases the sum at stake is comparatively small—a hundred dollars or so.
When the technical staff was in Washington, the taxpayer who wanted to appeal to it had to come down here to do the appealing; chances were it would cost him more to do that than he would save by winning his case.

Availability is Aim

Now, however, the regional office of the technical staff is likely to be within fairly easy reach.
The taxpayer can go to that office and lay the whole case before the technical adviser, who will then hand down his decision.

As far as the Bureau of Internal Revenue is concerned, that is final. But the taxpayer who wants to keep on fighting may do so, by appealing to the Board of Tax Appeals. This board—it has 15 members, by the way—is going to follow the policy of the technical staff and make itself more easily available to the taxpayer, too. It will "ride circuit," so to speak—hold sittings in different parts of the country, so that the taxpayer
can get at it more conveniently.

The case usually ends with the Board of Tax Appeals, although anyone who wants to (and can afford to) can always go to the Federal Court. The only sure thing about such a procedure,

though, is that it will be expensive.

In the fiscal year of 1938, the Board of Tax Appeals disposed of 5689 cases, involving total tax payments of $134,519,000. Of this sum, the government finally collected $36,613,000. In other words,
when he has rows with taxpayers,
Uncle Sam collects about 27 per cent of the time.

Reed Would Have U. S. Abolish Barge Service

Washington, Feb. 28.—(AP)— Senator Reed (R-Kas.) introduced Tuesday a bill to abolish the federal barge lines.

The measure would provide for discontinuance of transportation services and liquidation of the assets of the Inland Waterways Corporation and the Warrior River Terminal Company.

The secretary of war would be directed to discontinue the companies and wind up their affairs not later than six months after Congress passed the law.

"I do not think the Federal government has any more business operating barges on channels built at public expense than it has to operate a fleet of trucks on highways built in the same way," Reed said.

By DON DANIELSON

Coaches Curtis Brandau of Sterling Township and George Quire of Rock Falls have been working hard with their teams to get them ready for games in the Dixon Regional tournament tonight. The teams scrimmaged each other at the Coliseum Monday afternoon and there is a strong possibility that these two teams may meet in the semi-finals on Friday night if Steward doesn't upset Rock Falls tonight.

Bob Elson of Chicago, well-known sports authority, will be the guest speaker at the annual "S" club banquet of Sterling Township high school on Tuesday night, March 14.

On March 16-18 sixteen basketball teams will compete in the state basketball tournament at the University of Illinois and anyone who can pick ten of the teams who will survive the regional is doing pretty well. Here, however, are one fellow's selections: Danville, Dundee, Paris, Johnston City, Rockford, Springfield, Decatur, Moline, Carbondale, Proviso and Vandalia. Anyone else have any suggestions?

That spring is just around the corner is indicated by the baseball teams now in training camps and the announcement of the second annual Rock River Valley Track Relays to be held May 12 at Monterey stadium in Janesville, Wis., and to which the Dixon trackmen have been invited. Other schools besides Dixon which have been asked to participate include Freeport, Ill., Madison West, Madison East, Beloit, Wis., Racine Horlick, Kenosha, Wis., Janesville, Wis., and Sterling, Ill.

At Princeton last night Mendota, Dixon's rival in the North Central conference, smothered Wyoming Township under a score of 61 to 20. In the first game Princeton, a probable North Central conference member for next year, downed Manlius, 33 to 26.

The Knacks basketball team, champions of the Dixon Industrial League, and their followers might be glad to know that the Kitteringham and Snyder crew can be trimmed. Company E of the Rockford Armory downed the cagers, 44 to 25 Monday night. The Knacks will meet the Rockford team Monday night when the Mt. Morris tournament for independent teams is resumed after timeout for "flu."

Belvidere, champions of the North Central conference, will play in the regional tournament at Rockford. Belvidere is seeded for the upper bracket with Rockford the strong team in the lower shelf. If Belvidere should succeed in upsetting Rockford in the finals, and Dixon should go to Rockford for the sectional and meet Belvidere... But this is getting involved with "ifs".

Arrangements are being made to use a public address system at the high school gym during the Regional tournament which begins tonight. Substitutions and the names of players in the lineup will be "broadcast."

Max Fordham was high kieger at the Dixon Recreation bowling alleys last night with 151-192-226 for 569. Other good games were those of H. Fordham, 204; Fallstrom, 201; McClanahan, 211; Hanson, 206; Shaulis, 203; Miller 209.

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Petersburg, Fla. — Rookie

Charley Keller from Newark is a main point of interest in the New York Yankees' camp. Keller already has been performing with his big bat and it's reported he can hit a ball farther into left field than any Yankee since Babe Ruth.

Lake Charles, La. — Eager for action, the advance squad of the Philadelphia Athletics arrived today for spring training. Lamar Newsome, who joined the group at Opelika, Ala., with Lou Finney, said he was confident of regaining his shortstop post. He was hit on the head on the way north last spring and was out most all season.

Pasadena, Calif. — The new rule which permits pitchers to start their delivery with only one foot on the slab doesn't seem to concern the Chicago White Sox hurlers. Even Bill Dietrich, voluntarily retired last year with a sore arm, didn't know much about the rule, designed to ease the strain on salary flippers, as he propelled a few real curves yesterday.

Bradenton, Fla. — With one casualty already reported, manager Stengel of the Boston Bees is bearing down on his pitchers and catchers. Freddy Frankhouse was hit on the knee by a batted ball during the first session but escaped with a bruise. Al Simmons, Casey's now outfielder, delivered several good wallops at bat.

Clearwater, Fla. — Although the Brooklyn squad has been pretty thoroughly overhauled since last season, Manager Leo Durocher still is looking for one more player. What he wants is someone like Pat Crawford, who was so valuable to the Cardinals five years ago. "He could play any position in the infield or outfield," Leo explained, "and what a pinch hitter."

Hot Springs, Ark. — It was Second Baseman Carl Hubbell as the New York Giants chose up sides for a game yesterday, but it still was his throwing arm that counted. The famous sore-armed southpaw had some hard throws to make and he didn't spare his arm a bit. He even helped completed a fast double play.

Sarasota, Fla. — Concentrating on pitching, on which his pennant hopes hang, Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox started today's first drill with 4 fingers on hand. Lefty Grove, whose arm went dead last year, and Denny Galehouse, newcomer from Cleveland, are the big question marks the staff.

Tampa, Fla. — Two Cincinnati pitchers already have learned to take it easier. Johnny Vander Meer, 10 pounds lighter than a year ago, has slackened his pace, while Paul Derringer waived: "I thought I was in the pink of condition, but I found a lot of muscles that didn't get exercise from golf and fishing."

Avalon, Calif. — While Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs is finding it hard to keep Dizzy Dean from bearing down too much, warning his repeatedly against straining the arm he hurt last year, the second squad of infielders and outfielders starts west tonight. They'll be here for a workout on Sunday.

New Braunfels, Tex. — Figuring the Phillies should be well rested after their long train ride, Doc Prothro, their new manager, figures on a quick start. "We'll start with running and bunting games and some fungo hitting and work up from there," Prothro said.

San Antonio, Tex. — In addition to the 11 pitchers and two catchers on hand to start the St. Louis Browns' training, Joe Glenn the receiver obtained from the Yankees, is expected here today. He is flying in from Dickson City, Pa.

New Orleans, La. — Reaching their training camp today, the Cleveland Indians have a noon workout on the schedule, with the photographers listed to do most of the work. Jeff Heath, slugging holdout, is expected to come here to confer with Vice President C. C. Slapnicka.

Orlando, Fla. — According to rumor, Clark Griffith, of the Senators is reopening negotiations for a trade with Detroit. He is after Rudy York or Birdie Tebbets and offering Cecil Travis as bait.

Lakeland, Fla. — Manager Del Baker of Detroit already is deep in the task of reforming Chet Laabs' batting style. The young outfielder, who failed to start last year because the pitchers outgassed him, is being taught to meet the ball, not kill it.

BASEBALL PILOTS AGAIN Faced WITH HOLDOUT TROUBLE

Some Stubborn Players Giving Club Managers Real Problem

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 1. — (AP)—Now that all the major league ball clubs have a batch of players in training camp or enroute there, even the hard-to-convince business managers are beginning to admit there is a holdout problem again this year.

The bosses seldom if ever call a player a holdout until he fails to turn up in camp. Then they usually try to laugh it off with the suggestion he's probably on his way and bringing his contract along. But they're having a hard time getting around the determined statements of such stubborn gents as Paul Waner, Joe (Muscles) Medwick, Van Mungo, Dick Coffman, Buck Newsom and Luke Appling.

Coffman is perhaps the latest to become an admitted holdout. He conferred with Manager Bill Terry of the Giants at Hot Springs and got nothing but an ultimatum. Terry said the veteran flinger had been given a raise in mid season last year and another for the coming campaign and that would be all. To this Dick replied, "but it still ain't enough."

The Waiting Stage

The others haven't made much noise after their first loud assertions the salaries offered were much too low, and the hold-out arguments mostly have reached the waiting stage. Mungo, offered a cut from $15,000 to $5,000, has shipped back two contracts and says he'll stay in Pageland, S. C., unless he's offered a lot more. And Boss Larry MacPhail retorts "I hope he does." The elder Waner also has returned the proffered document twice with the remark, "it must have been written with a surgeon's knife."

In addition to the temperamental flinger, the Dodgers also have Babe Phelps, regular catcher, Charley George, Bill Crouch, Fred Sington, Tot Pressnell, Luke Hamlin and Whitlow Wyatt to deal with. Some of them already were in camp and ready to talk to MacPhail when he arrives.

Other holdout lists belong to the Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Browns, while only the Boston Red Sox, Detroit Tigers, and the Phillies have reported contract lists complete.

DiMaggio Unsigned

The World Champion Yankees aren't saying much and perhaps they don't know just what to expect, but Joe DiMaggio, last year's loudest and most stubborn objector, Red Rolfe, Joe Gordon and Frank Crosetti remain unsigned.

Cleveland's list, reduced yesterday when Hal Trosky and Bruce Campbell signed, included Rolfe Hemsley, Earl Averill, Lyn Lary, Mel Harder, Jeff Heath and Johnny Broaca. The Browns' holdout collection, headed by the talkative Newsom who's still mentioning $20,000, takes in such players as Russ Van Atta, Don Heffner, Billy Sullivan and Mel Almada.

As for the others, the Giants expect Joe Moore and Burgess Whitehead to bring their contracts to camp; the Cards, besides Medwick, still have to come to terms with Mickey Owen, Don Padgett and a few others. Gus Suhr and Bill Brubaker haven't signed up with Pittsburgh yet but may soon. Hank Leiber and Stan Hack of the Cubs, Rookie Jim Outlaw of the Bees and Ray Davis of the Reds were other unsigned National Leaguers.

Applying Still Stubborn

Applying is the White Sox only holdout but as the club's best hitter he promises to be an important as well as stubborn one. Washington isn't looking for any serious trouble with Buddy Myer, Jimmy Deshong and Pete Appleton.

Roy Mack of the Athletics probably put the bosses' idea right

Sterling Meets Ashton in Opening Game of Regional Tournament Here This Eve

Steward and Rock Falls Teams to Meet For Second Game at the Local High School Gymnasium

SCHEDULE OF GAMES

Tonight

7:30—Ashton vs. Sterling.

8:30—Steward vs. Rock Falls.

Tomorrow Night

7:30—Dixon vs. Amboy.

8:30—Paw Paw vs. Prophetstown.

At 7:30 tonight the referee's whistle will call together the centers of Sterling Township and Ashton for the jump ball which will signal the start of the Dixon Regional basketball tournament, a contest involving eight teams, only one of which will emerge victorious on Saturday night.

Both Sterling and Ashton finished fourth this season in their respective conferences, but the North Central members may be said to have an edge over the Lee county team in consideration of the stronger competition met throughout the year. Ashton, a member of the Route 72 conference, won five games and lost 14, while Sterling won nine and lost six in the season.

Ashton's hopes will be placed in the hands of such performers as Yenerich, Bailey, White, Leuzinger, Cain, Jenkins, Wallace, Calhoun, Roop and Kersten while Sterling will probably use Duhm, Gasso, Griesner, Healey, Ridge, Irvin Wolfe, Bob Wolf, Woodyatt and Riser.

Rock Falls Finished Sixth

Rock Falls' cagers, which finished sixth among seven teams in the Rock River Valley conference, will meet the Steward team in the second game tonight. Steward has an outstanding record this season, rolling up huge scores in a sweep of the district tournament last week end, and might easily upset the boys from the larger school and move through to the finals.

Last year in the Regional tournament Dixon defeated Amboy in the first game by a count of 19 to 16. Tomorrow night the Sharpshooters will meet the Welmeyans again. This season the Amboy team finished fifth in the standings of the Rock River Valley conference with four wins and seven losses.

In the second Dixon game last year the locals trimmed Rollo, 37 to 35, and defeated Prophetstown, 28 to 20, in the finals. In the Sectional at Rockford last year the Purple downed Belvidere, 29 to 24, and lost to Freeport, 27 to 26.

This year's Regional will be the fifth straight held in Dixon with the locals splitting the four previous contests with Sterling, two-up. In the tournament held at Sterling in 1934 the Dixon team won. Sterling won in 1935 here; Dixon won in 1936; Sterling turned around to win in 1937 and last year the locals came back to win. Dixon will be out this year to make it two straight.

Eligible Players

Eligibility lists from Steward and Paw Paw have been received and those named for Paw Paw include Maurice Krueger, Gene Martin, Julius Brewer, Robert Avery, Marvel Coss, Roger Tarr, Don Terry, Kermit Knetsch, Wilbur Ketchum, Don Urey, Virgil Zaletski and Gall Alexander. Of these only ten will be brought to the tournament. Paw Paw will play its first game tomorrow night at 8:30 with Prophetstown.

Steward's eligibility list includes the names of Paul Carter, Jerome O'Donnell, Gilbert Herrmann, Robert Herrmann, Roger Chapman, Dale Kirby, Martin Ravanias, Richard Phipps, Wilbur Espe, Bob Wrigley, Robert Anderson, Charles Cole, Henry Larsen and Warren Herrmann.

into a nutshell when he admitted Third Sacker Bill Werber and Rookie Dee Miles hadn't come to terms. He doesn't consider them holdouts, he said, unless they're still unsigned when the first game of the season is played.

STILLMAN VALLEY AND OREGON WILL BATTLE THIS EVE

Regional Tournament at Mt. Morris to Start at 7:30 O'clock

GAMES TONIGHT

7:30—Oregon vs. Stillman Valley.

8:30—Polo vs. Rochelle.

The neighborhood teams will gather for their Regional tournament tonight at Mt. Morris with Oregon and Stillman Valley scheduled to meet for the opener at 7:30 o'clock.

Stillman Valley's players won the right to appear in the regional as runners-up of the Franklin Grove district tournament last week. Polo, championship team of the Rock River Valley conference, will engage Rochelle's team which finished last in the league.

Tomorrow's games will pit Leaf River against Franklin Grove in the first game and Mt. Morris against Forrester in the second.

Leaf River Is Strong

Leaf River, championship team of the Route 72 conference, isn't expected to have much trouble in working to the finals in the lower bracket with the Polo champions expected to clear the hurdles of the upper frames. In case these two teams do come through, the final game on Saturday night should pack plenty of wallop with the two championship squads fighting it out for the right to continue to the sectional tournament next week at Rockford.

The members of the Mt. Morris Pepsters club are in charge of the program tonight and the members of the "M" club will act as ushers. Between games Bill Wohl-schlegel, manager of the Mt. Morris Community Gymnasium, and two of his pupils will entertain with athletic stunts. Referees for the games will be Chasey and Bere of Freeport and Milton Dunk and Harold Patterson will be official scorekeepers.

Of the eight teams playing in the Mt. Morris tournament only one, Franklin Grove, is from outside of Ogle county.

PROPHETSTOWN COMES TO DIXON TOURNAMENT WITH AN OUTSTANDING RECORD

Prophetstown high school cage team which meets Paw Paw in the second game tomorrow night in the Regional tournament, uses four seniors and three freshmen among the regular players. One of these frosh cagers is five feet three and one half and weighs 120 pounds.

During the season the Prophets won 18 out of 25 games for a percentage of .720. Among these victories was included the championship of the conference tournament when Erie was turned back, 35 to 30. The record of the visitors compares favorably with that of the Dixon Sharpshooters who have won 11 games and lost five

ROUNDUP OF SPORTS GOSSIP

New York, March 1. — (AP)—Man on the spot: Bill McKechnie, manager of the Reds and the peepul's chere to win the National League bunting. . . . Patrick Edward Comiskey has enough offers to keep him fighting seven nights a week, including a $5,000 bid to box George James, Welsh heavyweight, in London.

John Roxborough, co-manager of Joe Louis, is supposed to be bank-rolling the John Henry Lewis-Dave Clark fight in Detroit on March 31. . . . Clark is a protégé of Roxborough's and is always on hand as a sparmate in Joe Louis' training camps. . . . John Henry still is light-heavyweight champ in almost every state except New York and Roxborough may make up April 1 to find himself manager of two world champions. . . . Not a bad April Fool.

A Brother Act

Once in a while a person wins fame because his talents combine remarkably well with those of a partner. And sometimes—very rarely—these partners are brothers. This story discusses one such case. Succeeding articles, about famous brother acts in other fields, will describe the Mayos, the Rusts, and the Marxes.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY

AP Feature Service Writer
Washington—Pluggie John and Drator Will are the outstanding brother team in American political life.

It's been a brother team ever since their days of comparative obscurity on a southern hill country farm. In all that time they have never dissolved partnership—save for a few minutes one night in the long, long ago.

In that few minutes they almost had it out in the pitch darkness of their backstairs room—But let Pluggie John tell it:

"Funny scrap, that," he sighs, leaning back in the comfortable swivel chair the U. S. supplies to its Senators.

"The cause of it was most important—a matter of principle, you might say. It was a wad of chewing gum about the size of a hen egg. They called it wax in those days."

They Came to Blows

"Will came to bed with a cheekful of the stuff. I couldn't make him stop chewing it, so I could go to sleep. One word led to another, and the first thing either of us knew the argument had blossomed into a full bloom fist fight."

"We might have had it out then and there if the confounded bed had not broken down. Sounded like somebody had dynamited the house. Next thing we heard was father on the stairs, taking the steps two at a time. It was a matter of some ten seconds or so for him to put a stop to our little show. From that day to this we have never quarreled."

That seems to be the key to the success of the Bankhead brothers from Alabama. They compose the No. 1 Brother Act of American politics—William B. Bankhead, Representative and Speaker of the House of Representatives, and John H. Bankhead, 2nd, Senator and author of the famous—or notorious, according to your economic leanings—Bankhead cotton control law.

Brother Admires Brother
Through their 60-odd years, these two brothers have admired each other; each has encouraged the other in his long suit.

Deep down, Pluggie John has always thought the co-ordination of mind and matter required for spell-binding oratory was the greatest of human achievements. Will is a spell binder. As a boy orator, he nominated Oscar W. Underwood for President in the 1912 Democratic convention.

There's evidence aplenty that Orator Will believes the greatest gift in life is the patience and sustained thinking power necessary to translate a dynamic idea into the law of the land. To Pluggie John he gives the credit for the thinking that produced the first compulsory farm control law ever put on the Federal statute books—the Bankhead act of 1934. It is one of the truly significant departures in governmental practice in our times.

A Parade of Bankheads
When John told the idea of compulsory cotton control to President Roosevelt, Speaker Will put his shoulder to the wheel in the balky House. It was a hard fight, but the Bankheads won, a sample of complementary teamwork.

Alabama has contributed a Bankhead to Congress for 52 years. The father, the late Senator John H. Bankhead, a Confederate captain, was the first, coming to Washington in 1857.

The younger Bankheads got their first taste of public life serving as clerks for their father's committees, and taking law at Georgetown University here on the side, or vice versa.

Both demonstrated precocity and diplomacy early in life. In succession they became the first and second southerners to win the presidency of the senior class at Georgetown. John was first because he was two years older.

After a few false starts, both gravitated to politics. Together they managed their father's increasingly successful campaigns until he died in 1920. Some six years before that Will had sneaked away from home one night to announce for Congress himself.

He had to run away because the elder Bankhead objected to either of his sons standing for public of-

In Hollywood

Hollywood.—All over the lot: One of the movies' waning stars recently completed a picture sneak-previewed before a difficult suburban audience the other evening, and what with some difficulties with the sound equipment and several awkwardly cut sequences, the show went from bad to worse.

In the story, the star has the role of a screen star who has had a quarrel with her producer. Then there came a closeup in which she declared vehemently: "This is absolutely my last picture!"

It proved an unfortunate bit of dialog writing. Numerous members of the audience broke into enthusiastic applause.

FUMBLING ALL AROUND

For a scene in "Some Like It Hot," with 200 extras in the background, Shirley Ross asked Bob Hope and Frank Scully to take her to lunch. Scully fumbled awkwardly in his pockets like a fellow who's broke and Hope, equally embarrassed, was supposed to echo, "Lunch!"

First time they shot it, the sound man couldn't hear Hope's response. "Speak your line a lot louder, Bob," ordered George Archambault, the director.

"Lunch!" yelled Hope. And the mob of hungry extras stampeded off the set for the commissary.

REAL THING

The successor of Keye Luke in the Charlie Chan pictures is a San Francisco-born Chinese named Victor Young. Since that doesn't sound very Oriental, and because there is an orchestra leader by that name, he has been christened Sen Yung. That's okay with him; he's happy enough to be in the movies, where he can make enough money to study law.

He's already a graduate of the University of California, a major in economics, and he was a salesman for a wholesale chemical house when he read one day that 20th-Fox was looking for another son of Chan. He went to the casting office, said he wanted the job, and three days later was a movie actor.

He considers acting just an expedient but admits he may change his mind. Yung (or Young) always has planned to take a law degree and then go to the China which he never has seen. He's confident that by the time he gets there China will again belong to the Chinese and will be busy with the restoration of its trade.

Incidentally, Young's role in the Chan films is that of a younger son. The character played by Keye Luke is out of the series for a while. Luke himself is working at commercial art, but no pictures—quite a change from the snug $20,000 contract for four pictures a year that was offered him. His agent thought he could get more, but he was mistaken. The studio simply hired another Chinese.

COLORFUL ODLUM
One of the colony's most colorful writers is Jerome Odum, a young, tall, sparsely-haired newspaperman from Minneapolis. He wears an air of tremendous nervous intensity and shabby clothes. All his pockets seem to be stuffed with scribbled notes and wadded paper money. Odum can't reconcile himself to his new prosperity, and he likes to carry lots of cash around for ready spending.

A year ago, Odum quit his newspaper job, blew all his cash and began writing a book. He completed half of "Each Dawn I Die" in six days, but then a man came to take away his rented typewriter. Odum pleaded for a little time, sold the book on the first chapters, then finished it in four more days.

Warners bought the story, and is filming it now.

Sometimes the fact that a person of this age is financially comfortable is a disadvantage rather than an advantage. There is a tendency for those who are in comfortable circumstances to lie back, to put on weight, to eat a great deal, to overindulge in alcohol and tobacco, under which performance deterioration proceeds much more rapidly than in the case of those who are still striving, and who must watch carefully their health and hygiene in order to be able to compete.

During this period also there may be a tendency of the blood and the tissues of the human body to lose some of the resistance which a younger body has against infectious disease. For this reason, conditions like pneumonia are much more serious for those in the fourth and fifth decades of life than for those in the younger years. This is all the more reason why the person of middle age and beyond must use extra caution.

Daily Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

When life expectancy at birth was 40 years, little was said, or written about the changes that occur in the human body in the period from 40 to 60. Now, however, life expectancy at birth is more than 60 years and we have begun to understand the difficulties associated with the transition period between middle age and old age.

The human being passes through several cycles in his life: the age of growth from birth to 20, the age of maturity from 20 to 50, and the age of decline or old age from 50 years until the normal life expectancy has been reached.

Everyone knows that the child passes through a definite transition period between infancy and youth, adolescence. During this period the child is informed by its mother, its father and its teachers as to some of the strange happenings that occur. Few people, however, seem to be informed as to the changes to be expected in the transition between middle age and old age.

Certain difficulties occur for which many people are unprepared. The changes are chiefly the result of activities of the glands of internal secretion. The change fortunately does not come overnight. The gradual alteration in the texture of the skin, the graying of the hair, the slowing down of mental activity and the weakening of the muscles take place slowly.

Sometimes emotional disturbances are intensified in this period. Associated with these emotional disturbances there may be worries which seem much larger than they really are, both for the housewife concerned with her domestic problems and for the business man troubled by his work.

Sometimes the fact that a person of this age is financially comfortable is a disadvantage rather than an advantage. There is a tendency for those who are in comfortable circumstances to lie back, to put on weight, to eat a great deal, to overindulge in alcohol and tobacco, under which performance deterioration proceeds much more rapidly than in the case of those who are still striving, and who must watch carefully their health and hygiene in order to be able to compete.

During this period also there may be a tendency of the blood and the tissues of the human body to lose some of the resistance which a younger body has against infectious disease. For this reason, conditions like pneumonia are much more serious for those in the fourth and fifth decades of life than for those in the younger years. This is all the more reason why the person of middle age and beyond must use extra caution.

Last 40 Popes Have Been From Italian Ranks

The lands which, during nineteen centuries, have contributed Popes to rule over the Roman Catholic church, are listed in a bulletin from Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographical Society. The last forty Popes have been Italian, it is pointed out, yet there is no church law requiring the election of an Italian churchman to the Papacy.

"Since the election of Clement VII, the 221st Pope, in 1523, all the leaders of the Roman Catholic church have been natives of Italy," says the bulletin. "Many of these Italian Popes, however, served the church in other countries as did the late Pius XI who was once on ecclesiastical assignment to Poland."

French Rank Next

"St. Peter, recognized by the church as the first Pope, was a Galilean. Other Popes were natives of Syria, Spain, Turkey, northern Africa, France, Greece, Germany, The Netherlands, England, and Portugal."

"Adrian VI, the only Pope from The Netherlands, was the last non-Italian Pope. He occupied the office for only a year and a half—January 9, 1522 to September 14, 1523. The single English Pope, Adrian IV, headed the church from 1154 to 1159."

"Next to Italy, which was the native country of 214 of the 261 Popes, ranks France, which has contributed fourteen Popes. All of them reigned in the period between 999 when Sylvester II was elected, and 1378 which marked the death of Gregory XI, Greece (which included parts of Asia Minor) ranks next to France, having contributed ten Popes. They preceded the French Popes, occupying the Papacy between the years 79 and 752. Six Popes were natives of Germany, four were Syrians and three each were from Spain and Africa."

Cardinals From Many Lands

"At present there are sixty-two members of the Sacred College of Cardinals. Upon them falls the responsibility of choosing the 262nd Pope, successor to Pius XI. Thirty-five of the Cardinals are Italians and 27 of other nationalities. The largest groups in the Sacred College are made up of the six French, four German, three Spanish, and three American prelates."

"The American Cardinals are Cardinal William O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston, Cardinal Dennis Dougherty, Archbishop of Philadelphia, and Cardinal George Mundelein, Archbishop of Chicago."

"Canada, Belgium, Hungary, Brazil, Portugal, Ireland, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Iraq, Argentina and England each have one Cardinal who may take part in the Papal election and may, if duly elected, become the head of the Roman Catholic world."

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Peterson entertained a number of relatives over the week end.

DECIDED LULL TODAY IN INDOOR TENNIS PLAYOFF

New York, March 1.—(AP)—There was a decided lull today in the National Indoor Tennis championships. Although two quarter final matches were scheduled in men's singles, there was far more discussion about the semi-final to be played tomorrow between Wayne Sabin and Jack Tidball.

Sabin, unbeaten since the first of the year and winner of five southern tournaments, was seeded No. 1. Tidball, who has been out of the national tennis picture for the last five years, was considered a likely "dark horse" but hardly had been expected to get this far.

The 27-year old Californian, however, kicked another big hole in the seeded list yesterday by putting out Sidney Wood, ranked No. 3 in the tournament and No. 4 in the country.

Democrats Seek To Avoid Third Term Showdown

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—Several middle-of-the-road Senators were reported authoritatively today to be trying to avoid a controversy over a third term for President Roosevelt.

They were said to have urged Senator Holt (D-W. Va.) to abandon his proposed resolution to put the Senate on record against a third term. Holt, however, declared he would introduce it later in the session.

Well-informed persons said the group opposing a showdown was headed by Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), a leader in the successful battle against the Roosevelt court bill two years ago.

Wheeler and some other Democrats who have opposed various administration measures were described as believing that Senate consideration of anti-third term resolution merely would increase party bitterness and dampen Democratic prospects for 1940. Friends said Vice-President Garner shared this view.

One Senator told reporters he had information that Roosevelt was little concerned by the Holt proposal, and that he would not urge his Capitol lieutenants to oppose it.

Senator Minton (D-Ind.), an administration supporter, said an anti-third term resolution undoubtedly could be defeated, but that it would be useless to consider one, Minton said he was confident the President does not want a third term.

Holt said he expected administration Senators would try to bottle up his resolution in a committee. He added, however, that he would insist on debating it and would demand a roll call vote.

Dies Committee Promised Limit-Aid from FBI

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—Attorney General Murphy pledged the support of the justice department today to the Dies committee on un-American activities.

He wrote Rep. Dempsey (D-NM.), a committee member, that while the department could not assign regularly a group of investigators, it probably would help out on specific requests for aid.

"If the committee will indicate what sort of work it has in mind," Murphy said, "it may be possible to designate a member of my staff who could be relieved of his duties in this department and be employed by the committee for the time being."

The attorney general said the Federal Bureau of Investigation was so overburdened with regular work that it could not afford to lend a group of men for any length of time.

Murphy also said federal district attorneys at New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco would assist committee investigators in preparing subpoenas.

Dempsey said he regarded Murphy's offer as "100 per cent co-operation." Chairman Dies (D-Tex.), who is recovering from an appendicitis operation, had criticized the justice and other federal departments last year for not co-operating with the committee.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the house judiciary committee had invited Dies or one of his 1938 investigators to substantiate some of the evidence charging that Harry Bridges, C. I. O. west coast maritime leader, was an alien communist.

Tax Collections Expected to Total $425,000,000

Washington, March 1.—(AP)—The treasury started today, amid much public head-scratching, its banner month of income tax collections—expected to produce slightly more than $425,000,000.

March 15 is the deadline for first installment payments on 1938 income taxes, and although the treasury has been willing to accept payments since Jan. 1, returns so far have been negligible.

Payments were expected by officials to show how far 1938 business fell below 1937. A year ago March collections, based on 1937 income, set a new record of $723,000,000, but the treasury counted on only $425,000,000 for this month in making budget estimates.

The basic income tax rates, both for individuals and corporations, were virtually unchanged, and the last congress granted relatively small concessions, from a revenue standpoint, on individual capital gains and corporation undistributed profits.

The returns to be filed this month by about 6,000,000 individuals and 600,000 corporations may have an important bearing however, on the tax revisions which the administration is considering as an aid to business.

Officials indicated the more generous collections turn out to be, the more generous the concessions the treasury might be willing to give business.

CUNNINGHAM TO APPEAR IN CHICAGO RELAYS MARCH 25

Chicago, March 1.—(AP)—Glenn Cunningham, world's premier miler, will run in the Bankers' Mile, feature of the Chicago Relays to be held March 25 at the International Amphitheatre. Cunningham's entry was received yesterday by The Daily News, sponsor of the meet.

The Kansas speedster, who will be shooting for a third victory in the Bankers fixture, will compete against a fast field. Other possible entries in the event are Charles (Chuck) Fenske, former Wisconsin ace, the Rideout twins Wayne and Blaine, of Texas, John Munksi of Missouri; Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania, and Archie San Romani, who whipped Cunningham in the Chicago meet in 1937.

Miners End Sit-Down With Their Hazards Not Met

Hazleton, Pa., March 1.—(AP)—Forty-nine hard coal miners, ending an underground sit-down in the dark, damp passages of a mine at nearby Oneida, caught up on lost sleep today as they basked in the comforts of home for the first time in a week.

Only partly successful in their attempt to obtain payment of $66,000 in back wages, the men emerged from the mine last night after the Wolfe Collieries Company issued an ultimatum that it no longer would be responsible for compensation payments.

The miners, bundled in heavy blankets provided by families and friends to protect them against the cold during their 160-hour underground stay, were lifted from the 250-foot level in a mine car in groups of five and six.

Cheers went up from a crowd of relatives and friends gathered at the mine entrance as each group appeared.

Physicians declared the men generally were in good condition. They were sped to their homes nearby in family automobiles, many saying they wanted most to obtain a bath and sleep.

Before the miners came out, pay envelopes covering $14,000 in wages due February 20 were carried into the mine by the priest, the Rev. Joseph Baran, who had made attempts to end the sit-down. Spokesmen said the miners would ask the courts to settle the other claims.

Sixty-two began the protest. 13 left the pit suffering from colds and exposure.

INTERCOLLEGIATE LEAGUE SCORING HONORS WON BY PEPPLER, FROSH FORWARD

Chicago, March 1.—(AP)—Ray Peppier, freshman forward of the Northern Illinois Teachers college basketball team, held the individual scoring championship of the Illinois Intercollegiate conference today. He has scored 99 points in 11 games.
